PODOCORPUS (Japanese Yew)

No. 3

The Fruit Bearing Shrub

There is no more beautiful shrub than our Podocarpus which also bears an edible fruit. This shrub may be trimmed to any height and shape. As a tree it will reach a height of 15 feet. It also makes a beautiful hedge, requiring trimming but once a year. The edible berries which are of a dark purple color, are delicious. (When the berries are ripe the purplish part is edible, the green being the seed). Especially adapted as a specimen plant in landscaping. They make beautiful pot plants for the home.

Grows south of Virginia, Tennessee, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arkansas.
